

Helping you handling UK tax investigations

At Watson Buckle, we understand that if one of your UK subsidiaries is the focus of a tax investigation, you need expert help from a British accountancy firm with dedicated expertise in this area.

We have many years' experience in helping overseas businesses to set up in the UK and in assisting them to manage their financial affairs smoothly, which includes helping them deal with government investigations.

The knowledge and understanding you need

Whether it is a simple enquiry on an individual aspect of a tax return or a full inspection of every facet of the business, our specialists can use their experience and knowledge to represent you in the most effective way and mitigate the final settlement.

We have the detailed understanding of tax legislation and compliance required to provide constructive advice, along with experience of handling tax investigations at the highest and most complex levels

Specialists in high end tax investigations

In addition to enquires into corporation tax or VAT irregularities, our expertise covers:

- Civil investigations of fraud
- Specialist investigations
- Serious Fraud Office (SFO) investigations

Therefore, if the government challenges the tax planning arrangements of your UK subsidiary, Watson Buckle can provide the independent, professional advice you need to fight your case.

We also offer an insurance scheme to cover the additional fees required to deal with the investigation.
